

EFFECTIVE LEADERSHIP

Thursday, November 14 | Duquesne University Rockwell Hall

OVERVIEW

An organization is only successful with effective leaders at the helm. In this course, you will identify your leadership style, learn the characteristics of effective leadership, and create an individualized developmental action plan. One of the key tools in this course is the My Preferred Leadership Inventory. This assessment, along with problem-solving activities and group discussions, will help advance your leadership skills and unlock your employees' potential.

Continuing Education Hours (CEH): 8

INSTRUCTOR: DR. REX GATTO

Dr. Rex Gatto is an internationally known author and speaker whose breakthrough research on management has helped organizations increase productivity and individuals enrich their lives. He authored the highly acclaimed “The Making of the Quintessential Coach: What It Takes to be a Workplace Coach,” and other books on stress, work/life balance, and mentoring. Dr. Gatto is an alum of Duquesne University and is the Founder and President of Gatto Associates, a professional training and coaching company.

In collaboration with the Institute for Supply Management (ISM) Pittsburgh, an 10% discount is available to ISM members, Duquesne Alumni, and companies sending 5 or more people.

Cost: $695

Register: pittsburgh.ismworld.org

Note: minimum of 5 registrants required or the course may be cancelled.